FOR PRESIDENT,
WILLIAM HOWARD TAFT.

Maybe the price of Beveridge's activity is a prospective Vice Presidency. We'll see.

Champ Clark's houn' dwag is now yelping along the Presidential trail and, may be to the White House.

What is going to happen if Taft and Teddy should bump into each other? It wouldn't be healthy for either.

It's dollars to dough-nuts that parents will not be so keen henceforth to name their kids after Teddy Roosevelt.

As a 24-karat fake how are the 1912 presidential preferential primaries? They are free for all and anybody can vote in them.

Woodrow Wilson's fatal mixup with Marse Henry cost the schoolmaster—candidate Kentucky's vote in the Baltimore convention.

Hold-up men are relieving New Yorkers of their valuables. The victims now know how visitors feel after a trip to their metropolis.

For ninety per cent of the steam railway mileage of the United States the aggregate of the operating revenues for March showed an increase of $12,661,901 as compared with March, 1911. Operating expenses showed an increase of $12,152,394 and net operating revenue an increase of $509,507.

Should the Democratic party succeed in its efforts to put sugar on the free list, it is not improbable that Louisiana, the most rock-ribbed Democratic State of the Southland, will go Republican this fall. This, at any rate, is the threat of many Louisiana newspapers and of business men and planters. Louisiana has about $100,000,000 invested in its cane-sugar industry, and this, it is claimed, would suffer from free sugar equally with the cane-sugar industry of the North.—San Francisco Chronicle.

As a winner of the endurance stakes the Mississippi flood of 1912 takes the ribbon.

Some of the best informed interests believe that there will be only an irregular and generally inconsequential movement of prices in the market between now and the Republican and Democratic conventions. Unless something unforeseen develops, say these interests, there is little chance for a big break in prices.

A crabapple Christian, Jimmie, is one who mistakes gall for goodness and whose veins are filled with crabapple juice instead of blood. He is hog-wild about hair-trigger points of denominational traditions and would rather see a man come into the church without a change of heart than without complying with some little point of sectarian etiquette which has about as much to do with real religion as a cold potato has with the east wind. He is never a spiritual man, never a charitable man, never a man worth a dang to his community. What he gives to relieve distress would not buy a hummingbird a shirt. What he does for the afflicted and discouraged would not make a speck the size of a pinhead if the efforts of his entire life were boiled down and concentrated in one tangible mass. He preaches the gospel of peace on earth and practices those things that produce strife, discord and dissension. If he cannot rule the organization to which he belongs he sets about to accomplish its ruin. Sometimes he is a layman. Other times he is a pinhead who has been elected into the pulpit through some unfortunate combination of circumstances. That they have been able to get a patient hearing in times past has been due to the mistaken notion that true religion and undefiled consisted in doing things sensible men now know have absolutely nothing to do with man's usefulness in this world or his salvation in the world to come.—Paris (Mo.) Appeal.

"Why?"

"She kept raising the price of forgiveness."

The U. S. WEATHER BUREAU

Says that the wet spell is over and we will now be permitted to enjoy spring. Kind of him, isn't it? Well, nearly everybody likes to "spruce up" in spring; repair the porch, put up screens, put a window in a dark room or maybe put in a new front door. It makes no difference whether it's a single board or an entire building we can furnish it.

Over the Fallen Heroes

With crepe upon our banners
And arms reversed, we meet
In memory of the soldiers
Spun from our feet.
They are the voiceless heroes
Who spoke where the field was red—
Spoke when the captain ordered:
"Fire from behind the dead."

They came from farm and village,
From crowded city and plain;
They marched in the sultry sunshine,
And pillowed their heads in rain.
They heard the blast of the bugle,
And quickly answered the call
"Form in line of battle—
Infantry, troops, all."

Some of these dropped by the wayside,
Some while on picket were shot—
Some fell in the skirmish line—
Some where the battle raged hot.
But, alas, for the youthful soldier,
Alas, for the veteran gray,
Who languished in pitiless prisons
Where the reaper, Death, held sway—

Dreaming of skies they could not see—
Hoping where hope was vain
To break the guarded prison bars
And breathe free air again.
Yearning for wife or mother—
Yearning to be caressed,
Or longing with broken spirit
To be, like these, at rest.

Over these dead nine hundred
Fold the flag of the brave,
While the marching columns halt to plant
A flag at each soldier's grave.
Violets, pink and daisies,
Roses and lilies bring,
When the apple trees are in blossom,
And the lark and the linnet sing.

In Memoriam

LESSON THAT ALL MAY LEARN

To Be Drawn From the Patriotism and Tenderness That the Memorial of the Day Evokes.

Under the soil and the dew
Waiting the judgment day;
Love and tears for the blue,
Tears and love for the gray.
—Finch.

While we lay the wreaths of affectionate remembrance over the mound-enclosed graves in "God's acre" let us resolve anew to be more patient with the living, more kindly affectionate one with another, not waiting to break our alabaster boxes of fragrant ointment and strew our flowers over the silent clay when the heart they would have cheered has stopped its beating forever. If you love your sister or your neighbor, tell her so. If the children do little thoughtful things for your comfort tell them how much you appreciate it. If you think they are doing well in school let them know you are proud of them; and if the little son or daughter looks well, tell them so unless they are insufferably little prigs and need holding down. Few people are injured by honest words of commendation. As a rule it calls them to do their best in order to live up to the standard you have set. Another thing, don't wait to have your good times together until "by and by." Have them now. In the days to come the family circle may be broken and though you may have more time and money then, there will be aching hearts when you think how father or sister or brother "would have enjoyed this." Make more of the holidays.

Beautiful Grand Army Habit.

It is no improper exposure of the "jodge" work of the Grand Army of the Republic to call attention to a most beautiful and effective method of the order in dispensing kindness and paying tribute to members.

In each meeting of a post inquiry is made concerning the number and names of those incapacitated by sickness from attending the gathering. When the list is completed formal order is made that flowers be sent to the bedside of each sufferer.

Further, if any of the sick are known to be in desperate financial circumstances, a five-dollar bill, or one of larger denomination, goes with the flowers.

Thus do the defenders and saviors of the government and of the nation remember and pay tribute to their comrades in hours of suffering and want.

Memorial Day

By
Oliver Wendell Holmes, Jr.

*****

Oliver Wendell Holmes, Jr., jurist, was born in Boston, Mass., March 8, 1841. He received his education at Harvard university, where he received the degree of A. B. in 1861 and L. L. B. in 1862. In 1862 he received the degree of LL. D. from Yale, and in 1892 the degree of D. C. L. from Oxford. He served three years in the 20th Mass. volunteers as lieutenant and lieutenant colonel; was wounded in the neck at Antietam, Sept. 17, 1862, and in the foot at Marye's Hill, Fredericksburg, May 3, 1863. He was admitted to the Massachusetts bar in 1865, became professor of law at Harvard law school in 1882, was associate justice from 1882 to 1899; chief justice from 1899 to 1902 in the supreme court of Massachusetts and associate justice of the supreme court of the United States Dec. 4, 1902.

(From an address before John Sedgwick Post No. 4, G. A. R., Keene, N. H., May 30, 1904.)

OMRADES, some of the associations of this day are not only triumphant, but joyful. Not all of those whom we once stood shoulder to shoulder—not all of those whom we once loved and revered—are gone. On this day we still meet our companions in the freezing winter bivouacs and in those dreadful summer marches where every faculty of the soul seemed to depart one after another, leaving only a dumb animal power to set the teeth and to persist—a blind belief that somewhere and at last there was rest and water. On this day, at least, we still meet and rejoice in the closest tie which is possible between men—a tie which suffering has made indissoluble for better, for worse.

When we meet thus, when we do honor to the dead in terms that must sometimes embrace the living, we do not deceive ourselves. We attribute no special merit to a man for having served when all were serving. We know that if the armies of our war did anything worth remembering, the credit belongs not mainly to the individuals who did it, but to average human nature. We also know very well that we cannot live in associations with the past alone, and we admit that if we would be worthy of the past, we must find new fields for action or thought, and make for ourselves new careers. But, nevertheless, the generation that carried on the war has been set apart by its experience. Through our great good fortune, in our youth our hearts were touched with fire. It was given to us to learn at the outset that life is a profound and passionate thing. While we are permitted to scorn nothing but indifference, and do not pretend to undervalue the world's rewards of ambition, we have seen with our own eyes, beyond and above the gold fields, the snowy heights of honor, and it is for us to hear the report to those who come after us. But, above all, we have learned that whether a man accepts from fortune her spade, and will look downward and dig, or from aspiration her axe and cord, and will scale the lee, the one and only success which it is his to command is to bring to his work a mighty heart.

Such hearts—ah me, how many!—were still 20 years ago; and to us who remain behind is left this day of memories. Every year—in the full tide of spring, at the height of the sympathy of flowers and love and life—there comes a pause, and through the silence we hear the lonely pipe of death. Year after year lovers wandering under the apple boughs and through the clover and deep grass are surprised with sudden tears as they see black veiled figures attelling through the morning to a soldier's grave. Year after year the comrades of the dead follow, with public honor, procession and commemorative flags and funeral march—honor and grief from us who stand almost alone, and have seen the best and noblest of our generation pass away.

But grief is not the end of all. I seem to hear the funeral march become a paean. I see beyond the forest the moving banners of a hidden column. Our dead brothers still live for us, and bid us think of life, not death—of life to which in their youth they lent the passion and glory of the spring. As I listen, the great chorus of life and joy begins again, and amid the awful orchestra of seen and unseen powers and destinies of good and evil our trumpet sound once more a note of daring, hope, and will.

THE DOCTOR'S WIFE
Agrees With Him About Food

A trained nurse says: "In the practice of my profession I have found so many points in favor of Grape-Nuts food that I unhesitatingly recommend it to all my patients."

"It is delicate and pleasing to the palate (an essential in food for the sick) and can be adapted to all ages, being softened with milk or cream for babies or the aged when the deficiency of teeth renders mastication impossible. For fever patients or those on liquid diet I find Grape-Nuts and albumin water very nourishing and refreshing. This recipe is my own idea and is made as follows: Soak a teaspoonful of Grape-Nuts in a glass of water for an hour, strain and serve with the beaten white of an egg and a spoonful of fruit juice or flavoring. This affords a great deal of nourishment that even the weakest stomachs assimilate without any distress."

"My husband is a physician and he uses Grape-Nuts himself and orders it many times for his patients."

"Personally I regard a dish of Grape-Nuts with fresh or stewed fruit as the ideal breakfast for any one—well or sick." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

In any case of stomach trouble, nervous prostration or brain fog, a tea days trial of Grape-Nuts will work wonders toward nourishing and rebuilding, and in this way ending the trouble. "There's a reason" and trial proves. Look in pkg. for the famous little book "The Road to Wellville."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true and full of human interest.

MAYSVILLE HEADS LIST

Of Kentucky Cities For Biggest Fire Premiums and Smallest Fire Losses

The following table shows the fire insurance premiums and losses paid in Kentucky cities by the stock, fire and marine insurance companies of other States and foreign countries for the year 1911, as shown by the partially completed annual report of the State Insurance Commissioner:

	Premiums.	Losses.
Louisville	$1,470,542	$708,457
Covington	272,858	90,252
Lexington	258,155	151,606

Stanford	24,648	19,551
Versailles	30,869	19,586
Winchester	64,282	15,235

The above list only includes cities that paid premiums of $20,000 or over. The total premiums paid in the whole State in 1911 $5,559,860 and total losses $3,763,337.

As Maysville makes the best showing of any city in Kentucky, it proves that we have the best waterworks system and the best Fire Department—the auto system—in the state. Fifty-two alarms and only $2,432 loss is certainly a record for 10,000 people.

KICKERS' CORNER

If any one at any time for any reason has any cause to "kick" in any way at anything of any kind, here's the place to say his say. The door is open—walk right in and help yourself, free gratis and for nothing—but don't make your "kicks" too long—it's the short, quick follow that counts—and cut. The name of the kicker must accompany the kick, or it'll be kicked into the waste-basket.

THE OTHER SIDE.

Editor of The Public Ledger—Dear Sir:

Relative to a contribution in your "Kickers Corner," the author finds the city deficient in interest in the things which would be for the public good, and especially the health of the community. He finds that the Council is not doing what is being done in other like communities in the way of oiling streets. He finds they are straining at a gnat and swallowing an elephant, in the item of expense, but the plain facts in this matter may help some:

Maysville has 13 1/2 miles of streets, with an average width of 30 feet, making 17,600 square yards per mile, or a total of 237,100 square yards. It requires 1 gallon of oil to per square yard, making 237,100 gallons of oil, which costs 6 cents per gallon spread, amounting to an outlay of $14,226, or twice and a half as much as is ordinarily spent for the entire repair of streets and crossings and the building of necessary sewers during the entire year, or an amount considerably over half required to run our entire school system. It would require a levy of about 15 cents on the present levy, which is now and has been years up to the limit, consequently making a levy out of the question. Of course, the critic would say it would not be necessary to oil all of the streets, but as every piece of property has the same rights, we could not discriminate only in the way we have done: i. e., requiring the property owners to assume a portion of the cost.

As John D. hasn't yet decided to extend his philanthropy to this community and donate the oil, we'll have to wait other suggestions. In comparing the city with the county, we wish the public to understand that the county has a special levy for torpedoes of 15 cents on the $100. The citizens of Maysville also share this taxation. The City Council has been petitioned not to oil certain streets, and as representatives of all the people we strive to give them what they want, and to do it in a just and equitable way. When a petition comes in to oil a street backed by the money as part of the cost for same we will know they are acting in good faith. The present city administration is making every effort to give the taxpayers more for their money than they have ever received before. Ten per cent. of the entire revenue of the city goes to charity, for almshouses and the poor and unfortunate; 37% for schools, this formerly being 25%.

If the gentleman who is making the complaint will consult our City Assessor or the Board of Tax Supervisors and learn the many schemes that are worked to avoid taxation; find out the vast amount of money claimed to be levied in Government bonds on April 1st of each year, he would be surprised that we get through with the small amount of funds we have and pay interest on $125,000 bonded debt, $90,000 of which is school bonds.

A CITY OFFICIAL.

Do You Want Your Money's Worth?

Flanders "20" Touring Car, $800

The next time an automobile salesman tries to sell you a car at a discount, tell him that the old "something for nothing" story can't fool you.

The best automobiles in the world are sold for their list price, not a penny less. They are worth it. But the lame ducks, the second rates, the nondescript and assembled automobiles are in the public market looking for the highest bidder. Look out they don't get you. If gold-brick cars are not worth their list price, how much are they worth? Nobody knows. Cut price deals are frauds.

But if you want a car of one price to all and worth every cent of it, get either a Studebaker E-M-F "30," $1100, or Flanders "20," $800. You can trust them. You get all that you pay for, and that is more than you get with any other car at near their price. Studebaker guarantees them—that's the big reason. No matter what price temptation falls in your way, Studebaker E-M-F "30" and Flanders "20" cars are far bigger bargains, because in years of good service and satisfaction they pay big returns.

We can prove it—Send for our new catalogue
